

VALORANT: PatMen Expected to Join Global Esports for VCT Pacific 2026

Patrick “PatMen” Mendoza is reportedly set to join Global Esports for the 2026 VCT Pacific season, according to multiple sources close to the situation speaking to Sheep Esports. The news arrives only days after Paper Rex unexpectedly moved the rising Filipino star to the bench, marking one of the quickest and most notable transfers of the offseason.

With this move, PatMen maintains his position in the top tier of the VALORANT Champions Tour, continuing his career at the highest competitive level after a breakout rookie season that earned him praise for consistency, composure, and clutch performances. His addition signals Global Esports’ determination to rebuild their roster and pursue far stronger results in the upcoming year.

---

A Rapid Landing After Surprise Removal from Paper Rex

PatMen’s benching by Paper Rex (PRX) stunned many fans. His performances throughout his rookie season were widely celebrated, and his presence played a vital role in stabilizing PRX during tough stretches of the year. However, PRX decided to adjust their lineup heading into 2026, replacing him with Adrian “invy” Reyes.

Despite the unexpected decision, PatMen did not remain teamless for long. Within days, Global Esports moved to secure him as their third confirmed signing of the offseason. Given his experience, versatility, and proven ability to deliver under pressure, he fits directly into the organization’s new vision for 2026—a complete rebuild aimed at escaping the bottom of the standings and returning to international contention.

---

Global Esports’ Ambitious Offseason Overhaul

Global Esports has been exceptionally active during the current transfer window, making major structural and strategic changes across nearly every role on the roster.

In recent weeks, GE:

- Competed in the SOOP VALORANT League Qualifiers with their new players
- Added Kale “Autumn” Dunne and Xavier “xavi8k” Juan to the starting lineup
- Brought in Hector “FroST” Rosario as head coach
- Signed Vladimir “vladk0r” Kornev as assistant coach, as originally reported by Sheep Esports

These moves indicate a complete overhaul of both the team’s in-game identity and coaching infrastructure. Bringing in a player of PatMen’s caliber further strengthens the roster, especially considering his championship pedigree.

With the addition of the former PRX star—who just helped his team win Masters Toronto and secure the VCT Pacific Stage 2 title—Global Esports is positioning itself to break away from the struggles that defined their previous season.

---

PatMen’s Meteoric Rise: From PRX Sixth Man to Masters Champion

PatMen’s story throughout the 2025 VCT season is one of the most compelling arcs in recent VALORANT esports.

A sudden promotion

He joined Paper Rex initially as a sixth man for VCT Pacific Stage 1. However, in a surprising turn, PatMen replaced long-time PRX player Aaron “mindfreak” Leonhart early in the season. The change proved to be pivotal.

A rocky start, followed by major success

Despite PRX’s difficult start in the group stage, PatMen quickly became the stabilizing force the team needed. His consistency across roles and map situations allowed PRX to recover, regain momentum, and push deep into international competition.

Achievements in his rookie season

With PatMen in the lineup, PRX:

- Reached Masters Toronto and won the championship

- Captured the VCT Pacific Stage 2 title
- Qualified for VALORANT Champions, finishing 4th overall

For a rookie, these accomplishments are extraordinary. His impact was both statistical and intangible, bringing balance to PRX's famously aggressive, high-tempo style.

However, despite the team's success, PRX opted for a single roster change heading into the next season—opening the door for Global Esports to acquire one of the region's top emerging talents.

---

What PatMen Brings to Global Esports

Global Esports struggled throughout the 2025 season, frequently finishing near the bottom of VCT Pacific standings. The organization opted for a major restructuring in hopes of finally breaking through to an international LAN appearance, something that has eluded them since their entry into the franchise league.

Key strengths PatMen adds to GE include:

- High-level LAN experience from Masters and Champions
- Exceptional consistency, even in high-pressure matches
- Ability to adapt rapidly to new roles and team environments
- Leadership potential, valuable for a team with multiple new additions
- A proven track record in clutch scenarios

His arrival marks a significant upgrade for GE, signaling that the team intends to compete seriously next season rather than simply rebuild.

---

A New Chapter for Global Esports in 2026

With several new players, two new coaches, and a radically reshaped roster strategy, Global Esports is heading into 2026 with renewed ambition. The goal is clear: escape past struggles, form a stable core, and qualify for international tournaments.

Projected Global Esports Roster for the 2026 VCT Pacific Season

- Patrick “PatMen” Mendoza
- Kale “Autumn” Dunne
- Xavier “xavi8k” Juan
- Savva “Kr1stal” Fedorov
- Go “UdoTan” Kyung-won

Head Coach: Hector “FrosT” Rosario

Assistant Coach: Vladimir “vladk0r” Kornev

This lineup features a mix of emerging talent, established veterans, and championship experience—all led by a refreshed coaching staff.

---

What This Move Means for the VCT Pacific Landscape

With PatMen shifting from Paper Rex to Global Esports, the competitive dynamic in VCT Pacific shifts significantly:

- GE gains a proven winner who has already competed at the highest international levels
- PRX moves forward with their own roster evolution, adding invy
- Regional competition intensifies, with many teams undergoing major roster changes

For fans, this is shaping up to be one of the most intriguing seasons of VCT Pacific yet.

---

Final Thoughts

PatMen joining Global Esports marks one of the most impactful offseason moves in the VCT Pacific region. After an extraordinary rookie year with Paper Rex, the Filipino star will now help lead Global Esports into a new era—one defined by ambition, restructuring, and the pursuit of international qualification.

If GE can fully integrate their new pieces, 2026 could be the team's most competitive year yet.